525 MILES
OF THE
UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD
Running West from Omaha
ACROSS THE CONTINENT,
ARE NOW COMPLETED.

THIS BRINGS THE LINE TO THE EASTERN BASE of the Rocky Mountains and it is expected that the track will be laid thirty miles further, to Evans Pass, the highest point on the road, by January. The maximum grade from the foot of the mountains to the summit is but eighty feet to the mile, while that of many eastern roads is over one hundred. Work in the rock cuttings on the western slope will continue through the winter, and there is now no reason to doubt that the entire grand line to the Pacific will be open for business in 1870.

The means provided for the construction of this Great National Work are ample. The United States grants its Six Per Cent. Bonds at the rate of from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile, for which it takes a second lien as security, and receives payment to a large if not to the full extent of its claim in services. These bonds are issued as each twenty mile section is finished, and after it has been examined by the United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first class road, thoroughly supplied with depots, repair-shops, stations and all the necessary rolling stock and other equipments.

The United States also makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, which will be a source of large revenue to the Company. Much of this land in the Platte Valley is among the most fertile in the world, and other large portions are covered with heavy pine forests and abound in coal of the best quality.

The Company is also authorized to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an amount equal to the issue of the Government and no more. Hon. E. D. Morgan and Hon. Oakes Ames are Trustees for the Bondholders, and deliver the bonds to the Company only as the work progresses, so that they always represent an actual and productive value.

The authorized capital of the Company is One Hundred Million Dollars, of which over five millions have been paid in upon the work already done.

EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY.

At present, the profits of the Company are derived only from its local traffic, but this is already much more than sufficient to pay the interest on all the Bonds the Company can issue, if not another mile were built. It is not doubted that when the road is completed the through traffic of the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States will be large beyond precedent, and as there will be no competition, it can always be done at profitable rates.

It will be noticed that the Union Pacific Railroad is, in fact, a Government Work, built under the supervision of Government officers, and to a large extent with Government money, and that its bonds are issued under Government direction. It is believed that no similar security is so carefully guarded, and certainly no other is based upon a larger or more valuable property. As the Company's are offered for the present at 95 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR, IN U. S. CURRENCY, they are the cheapest security in the market, being more than 15 per cent. lower than U. S. Stocks. They pay

SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD, or over NINE PER CENT. upon the investment. Subscriptions will be received in Portland by and by the Company's advertised Agents throughout the United States. Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the bonds will be sent free of charge by return express.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP, showing the Progress of the Work, Resources for Construction, and Value of Bonds, may be obtained at the Company's Offices or of its advertised Agents, or will be sent free on application.

JOHN J. CISCO, Treasurer, New York.

THE MUTUAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF NEW YORK.

Incorporated	1842.
CASH ASSETS	$23,000,000 00
ANNUAL INCOME OVER	6,000,000 00
CASH DIVIDEND, 1867	3,124,000 75

THE MUTUAL DOES A CASH BUSINESS ONLY AND HAS NO NOTES!

What a Note Company says:

"We recommend the CASH plan as the best mode of Insurance. None will deny this after a few years' experience of the different plans."—The Charter Oak Life Insurance Co. (a Note Company.)

EXPERIENCE has taught business men that CREDITS must be paid for!

IN CASH COMPANIES—The first payment is the largest, every successive year reduces the premium or increases the policy, at the option of the Insured. Past records of the Mutual prove that in 15 years their payments cease, but DIVIDENDS continue for life.

IN NOTE COMPANIES—The first payment is the smallest—Interest on Notes swallow Dividends and increase the future payments.

OBSERVE—Notes must be paid for by higher rates and increased Insurance!

DIVIDENDS—The Mutual declares Dividends the first and every successive year from the date of a policy. It does insurance. N. B.—The public should ascertain from other Insurance Companies if Dividends are declared annually from the start—or annually 4 YEARS AFTER Insurance.

RATES in The Mutual are Lower than in any other Company doing business on the Pacific Coast—and are considerably lower than in any Note Company.

EVERY ADVANTAGE is offered by The Mutual—(excepting notes)—that other Insurance Companies can offer.

THE MUTUAL
IS THE OLDEST AND LARGEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Washington News—War Office Imbroglio

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Specials say the Senate adjourned after over a seven hours executive session. The excitement in Washington is greater than at any time since the assassination of Lincoln. The Senate has passed by a strict party vote a resolution, declaring that the President had no authority for his course in the removal of Stanton, and ordered copies of the same to be sent to the President, Stanton and General Thomas. After adjournment a number of Senators went to the War Office to consult with Stanton. The latter avows his determination not to leave the office. He remained there during the night and had his meals sent in. It is generally believed that the reconstruction committee will immediately report in favor of impeachment. It is reported that Thomas says he will seize the office by force if necessary, but it is not believed such a measure will be resorted to. It is supposed the matter will be brought before the Supreme Court on writ quo warranto to be served on Stanton, requiring him to make answer why he does not deliver the War Office to General Thomas.

Latest at midnight—Several Senators appeared before Chief Justice Carter, of the District Court, and made affidavit charging General Thomas with violation of the Tenure of Office law and asking a warrant for his arrest. Justice Carter immediately issued a warrant for the arrest of Thomas, which will probably be served in the morning.

The Post's special says Stanton has beaten the President at his own game.

This morning General Lorenzo Thomas was arrested by Marshal Gooding, for attempting to interfere with the duties of the Secretary of War in violation of the Tenure of Office Act, and was brought before Judge Carter of the Criminal Court, this morning. He waived an examination and was released on bail of $50,000, to appear at 10 o'clock on Monday.

The Reconstruction Committee, at a meeting this morning, agreed to report articles of impeachment against the President to-day. There is intense excitement among the members and in the galleries over the action of the President.

The Journal of Commerce special says after the release of Gen. Lorenzo Thomas he went to the War Office and demanded possession. Stanton ordered him to leave the office, threatening to put him under military arrest, whereupon Thomas went to the White House to consult with the President.

There were present at Secretary Stanton's office this morning, Representatives Moorhead and Kelly of Pennsylvania, Van Horn and Van Wyck of New York, Dodge of Iowa, Ames of Massachusetts, Freeman Clark of New York, and ex member of Congress, Columbus Delano of Ohio.

About 11:30 A. M., Gen. Lorenzo Thomas, having been released on bail by Judge Carter, presented himself at the door and told Stanton he would like to see him. Stanton told him to proceed with anything he might have to say.

Thomas remarked that he had come to discharge the duties of Secretary of War ad interim, having been ordered to do so by the President of the United States.

Stanton replied that he should do no such thing and ordered him to his room to perform his duties as usual.

Thomas replied that he had been ordered by the President to act as Secretary of War ad interim, and he intended to do it.

Stanton again replied that he should not, and again ordered him to his own rooms, and denied the power of the President to make any such order.

Thomas said he would not go—that he should obey the orders of the President and not obey the orders of Stanton.

Stanton remarked that as Secretary of War, I order you to your place as Adjutant General.

Thomas—I shall not do so.

Stanton—Then you may stay there as long as you please, if the President so orders you, but you cannot act as Secretary of War.

Thomas then withdrew into a room opposite, being Gen. Scribner's room.

Stanton immediately followed him. After some further conversation Stanton said:

"Then you claim to be here as Secretary of War and refuse to obey my orders."

Thomas—I do, sir. I shall require the mail for the War Office to be delivered to me, and shall transact all business of the War Department. At this juncture Gen. Grant and Aid came in. Gen. Grant said playfully to Stanton and his friends, "I am surprised to find you here. I supposed you would be at my head quarters for protection."

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—The House sat until 1 o'clock this morning, and then took a recess until Monday. No vote was taken, but no doubt as to the result is believed to exist. Every Republican will vote for impeachment except Stewart and Carey, neither of whom were elected on the Republican ticket.

Specials state that after a long conversation with Robt. J. Walker, Thomas left the War Office. It is reported that Walker's advice was to remain passive and carry out all orders of the President, but wait the action of the Courts and not forcibly eject Stanton. Grant took no part in the controversy between Stanton and Thomas. Gen. Thomas, after leaving the War Department, in company with Robt. J. Walker, went to Grant's head quarters, and thence to the White House, where he was admitted without delay.

Attorney General Stanbery, Secretary Welles and R. J. Kennedy were present at the interview.

Gen. Thomas conversed at some length with the President, giving an account of his interview with Stanton. The President then withdrew to the library with Stanbery, where a private consultation was had. In a short time the President appeared and wrote out some order which was borne away by Col. Moore. It was rumored that this was a peremptory order to Stanton to withdraw forthwith from the War Department.

The Republican's special says Gen. Geo. H. Thomas telegraphed to Senator Wade declining the two brevets tendered to him, and requests the Senate not to confirm him.

R. J. Walker has received reports from the interior of Maryland to the effect that the militia are arriving to assist the President.

Stanton will order Adjutant General Thomas arrested again to-morrow, for attempted interference with his duties.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Washington specials say that Thurman, Senator elect from Ohio, made a speech to a large party. He said the representative body in the National Legislature were but a fraction of the American people, and contended that until all the States were represented in Congress, no republican form of government could exist.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Specials, mostly made up of rumors which prevail in this city, are, many of them, absurd. The situation this morning appears unchanged. The stories which have been circulating that the President intends to arrest Stanton are all false. Stanton still remains in the War Office.

The question regarding the position of General Emory commanding in the District of Columbia is fully settled. He called on General Grant after leaving the President and says he will not obey any order that does not purport to come through the headquarters of the army, but will first send to headquarters to ascertain whether the order really came through Grant's office.

Every precaution is taken to prevent force being used to eject Stanton.

Gen. Grant's own body guard, composed of veterans, is placed on duty as a guard.

It is not known how Johnson talks. In town his friends seem despondent and surprised at the united action of Congress. Many politicians here are giving the President the worst possible advice and the Maryland politicians especially strive to create trouble.

Gov. Swann has been here in consultation with the President.

It is rumored that the rebel militia of the Maryland army are ready to sustain the President.

The President's loyal Democratic friends say he only intended to test the constitutionality of the Tenure of Office Act in the courts. He says the clause in the law regarding appointments during the session of the Senate doesn't forbid him to remove an officer. Therefore he removes Stanton under the authority of the Constitution and next appoints General Thomas Secretary ad interim under the act of 1792, giving him power to make temporary appointments. Now under the statute [illegible] he nominates Thomas Ewing, Sr., as Secretary of War. This last nomination was sent to the Senate on Saturday afternoon, but the Senate had already adjourned. There is good authority for the statement that the President will apply today, through Attorney General Stanbery, to the District Court for a writ of quo warranto, directing Stanton to show the authority by which he retains the War Office.

It is positively known that the army is thoroughly with Grant in support of Congress.

Yesterday Grant caused to be transmitted to all headquarters a copy of orders containing the law directing all orders to the army to pass through his head quarters and making it high misdemeanor to obey any other.

On Sunday afternoon orders were sent for Col. Wallace who commands at Fort Washington. The President went over the whole ground of authority with him, but it is understood that Wallace declared he should feel bound to obey the law and not to recognize any order except from Grant.

Thad. Stevens has prepared a written speech for the close of the debate on Monday.

Stanton will probably have Thomas again arrested this morning for a second attempt to obtain possession of the War Office.

Attorney General Stanbery, Jere. Black and Charles O'Conor will defend the President before the Senate. [illegible] Feb. 24 [illegible] The Republicans [illegible] the President [illegible]

[illegible] friends of the President [illegible] Stanton [illegible] positively to resign the office, but [illegible] he would give him the time necessary to [illegible] Meantime Stanton consulted with his friends, and determined not to yield the office.

The President on Sunday night denied that he intended to use either soldiers or marines to obtain possession of the War Office.

Both the President and Stanton received dispatches from all parts of the country, asking them to stand firm.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The Herald's special has details of an interview with Gen. Thomas last night. Thomas said he should go down to the War Department at the earliest hour as Secretary ad interim, to all intents and purposes, without any reservation or doubt that his powers as such are perfectly legitimate, as were those of Gen. Grant. I shall set about the business of the Department, issue orders in the name of the President, give instructions to subordinate officials, and direct the general work of the Department. Of course it will be very unpleasant to me to find there one who may be prepared to disobey my orders. It may perhaps happen to be some personal friends of my own, but I have another recourse that is in the power conferred on me, and order them under arrest if they refuse to obey legitimate authority. But what about the great Mogul himself? Is Stanton to be left entirely alone? That is the question. He has utterly refused to comply and I suppose he will persist in the refusal. On my own option I should decline the use of any force; but if the President instructs me to employ force to get possession I must do so. However, I shall await further developments of this disagreeable business.

The Herald's special is also informed that numerous dispatches have been received from the Grand Army of the Republic, a secret organization with posts established in all parts of the country, endorsing the action of Congress. The general tenor of these dispatches is that the members of the Grand Army of the Republic will not see Congress overthrown. If violence is used by the enemies of Stanton, one hundred thousand are ready to come to Washington and put him back till order is restored. They are in a great state of excitement, and unanimously resolved to take sides with Congress and defend it in all its measures if affairs be brought to such an extremity.

The Herald Correspondent's Interview with Johnson.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The Herald's Washington correspondent had an interview with President Johnson last night relative to the removal of Secretary Stanton. The correspondent remarked that the country was surprised at his action.

The President smiled and inquired: "Well, what do the people say? I suppose they are surprised, but I have done only what I had determined on long ago."

The correspondent said: "The removal then is not in pursuance of a recent determination on your part, Mr. President?"

The President—Not at all, sir; the people seem to have mistaken my course altogether in this matter. I never had but one determination on this subject, but I have acted carefully, prudently and moderately. Perhaps I have been too slow about removing Stanton, but not because I feared the bugbear of impeachment, or that I feared anything that Congress might do. Nothing that that body would do or attempt to carry out would intimidate or surprise me. I know they are capable of doing anything. I delayed final action solely to let the country see and understand the position of Stanton. We first intimated to him that we would like him to withdraw from our privy council. He did not take the hint. We then requested him to resign. He refused. We then suspended him under the constitutional power which we have to suspend or remove a member of our Cabinet. The act of suspension was also not in conflict with the Tenure of Office bill, though we do not therefore recognize its constitutionality. As a matter of courtesy we sent reasons for our action to the Senate; that body pretended not to consider them sufficient, and assumed to reinstate Stanton in the office. Well, we still waited, hoping Stanton would see the propriety of resigning himself. Sherman and Grant offered to go to Stanton and advise him to resign. Here is a letter which indicates what they proposed. The President read part of a letter from Gen. Sherman, dated January 18th, saying that Gen. Grant and himself proposed to go to Stanton, and say that for the good of the service and country, he ought to resign. It would be time enough to consider ulterior matters. The President then continued: After waiting a reasonable time, we thought proper to day to order the removal of Stanton and appoint Gen. Thomas as Secretary of War ad interim. This is the whole story.

Correspondent—Was this step discussed in the Cabinet meeting?

President—No sir, not precisely. A general policy was agreed upon some time ago and the removal to day is in accordance therewith. I have just received a copy of the resolution adopted by the Senate to-night in executive session.

The President here read the resolution.

Correspondent—What will the Senate do, Mr. President, under that resolution, if you still insist upon having General Thomas act as Secretary ad interim?

President—I don't see that they can do anything. The resolution itself is the end of the matter as far as the Senate is concerned, unless the House present articles of impeachment, and the Senate undertakes to try the Executive and resolve itself into a high court of impeachment.

Correspondent—Do you think Congress really will attempt impeachment?

President—I don't know indeed, nor do I care. It would make very little difference to me.

The correspondent here asked what the President would do in the event of the passage of Edmund's bill of suspension, to which the President answered substantially as follows:

Sir, I would not obey the law if they attempted to suspend me. The law is clearly unconstitutional. There is a point against it which you gentlemen of the press seem to have overlooked. The bill of Senator Edmunds to suspend the President pending trial, would undoubtedly be an ex post facto law, so far as my case is concerned; such a law is declared unconstitutional by the very letter of the Constitution itself. My offence, we will suppose, is the removal of Stanton. That is an accomplished fact. Any law prescribing a penalty for that act would be ex post facto, and therefore unconstitutional. How, therefore, can Congress legally pass a bill of such a character?

The Correspondent remarked that certain Radicals might argue that a persistence in keeping Stanton out of office after the Senate declared his removal contrary to law, and after the supposed passage of Edmunds' suspension bill, would be bringing the question out of the operation of ex post facto law. The President replied that it would not alter the offence charged; it would still be the removal of Stanton—an act performed before the passage of the proposed law.

In reply to an inquiry as to whether the President had seen Gen. Thomas since the interview of the latter with Stanton, he said yes, and proceeded to state what had occurred at that interview. Gen. Thomas, he said, waited upon Stanton, and showed to him the President's order removing him and appointing Thomas as Secretary of War ad interim. Stanton read the order and asked Thomas whether he would be obliged to vacate the office forthwith. Thomas replied that his instructions were to assume control immediately. Stanton then said he would like to have time to arrange and take away his papers and documents. To which Thomas replied that considerable time would be allowed for such a purpose. No time, however, was allowed for Stanton to finish his arrangements.

The President repeatedly expressed his utter indifference as to what course Congress might adopt on the impeachment question, and in answer to a parting remark of your correspondent, that the President might sleep soundly in spite of the threatened impeachment, he said laughingly, "I don't think my slumber will be much disturbed by that affair. I shall sleep soundly, and awake refreshed."

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—In the House the regular order of business was the consideration of bills from the Committee on Patents.

Eldridge, rising to a privileged question, moved that the Clerk read Washington's farewell address. The Speaker ruled that it was not a privileged question. Eldridge moved to adjourn. Ayes and noes were called several times on various motions. The House refused to adjourn.

Wilson obtained leave to introduce a bill to punish with fine and imprisonment United States officers or other persons unlawfully using public money or property for their own benefit. The bill passed.

Pile asked leave to introduce a bill to abolish the office of Adjutant General.

Eldridge objected.

At ten minutes past two Stevens rose to make a report from the committee on Reconstruction. The Speaker admonished the spectators and members to observe order during the proceedings about to take place, and manifest neither approval or disapproval. Stevens then made the following report:

That in addition to the papers referred, the Committee find that the President, on the 21st of February, signed and ordered a commission or letter of authority, to one Lorenzo Thomas to act as Secretary of War ad interim, and to take possession of the bonds, books, papers and other public property in the War Department. Upon evidence collected by the Committee, which is hereinafter presented, and in virtue of the power with which they have been invested by the House, they are of opinion that Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, should be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors. They therefore recommend to the House the adoption of the accompanying resolution. Signed by Stevens, Boutwell, Bingham, Beaman, Hulburd, Farnsworth and Paine.

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors.

The resolution having been read, Stevens said—Mr. Speaker, it is not my intention in this first instance to discuss this question, and if there be no desire on the other side to discuss it, I am willing that the question shall be taken on the knowledge which you see already. The fact of removing a man from office while the Senate is in session without the consent of the Senate is itself, if there was nothing else, and has always been considered a high crime and misdemeanor, but I will not discuss the question unless gentlemen on the other side desire to do so. If they do, I [illegible] all for the present give way to them and say what I have to say in conclusion.

Brooks then took the floor, and made a lengthy speech against the resolution.

He [illegible] hoped to reach a vote this evening.

The Senate met in the evening and adjourned to Monday.

A full set of delegates was elected to the National Convention. A resolution was adopted re-affirming the platform of 1856. They say [illegible] tion of universal amnesty is demanded by every [illegible] eration of statesmanship, patriotism and justice; that Democrats will never be satisfied so long as a single one of her sons is deprived of any right guaranteed by the Constitution of the country or State. The Convention favors Pendleton for President, and instructs the delegates to vote as one for him.

MAGAZINE CRITICISM.—A good story is told on Fields, the publisher. The New York Times tells the following:

Perhaps no taste differs more than [illegible] Men of trained judgment and rare culture differ from each other almost as much as the boor and the philosopher. This is shown in the [illegible] magazines, not only [illegible] What the Galaxy rejects Putnam prints with [illegible] readiness; the essay Harper's repudiates meets with favor in the Atlantic; and the [illegible] the Atlantic "declines with thanks" is [illegible] the Broadway. Every month the editor of [illegible] one of the monthlies discovers in his rival the manuscript he has returned to the owner, while he himself prints and praises what his [illegible] have pronounced [illegible] We know a very clever authoress—one of the most [illegible] in the country—who sends her compositions at one time first to the Atlantic, then to Harper's then to the Galaxy, the next time, first to the Galaxy, etc., just reversing the order. Some one of the [illegible] usually rejects it, but another always [illegible] and she says candidly she would not give a fig for the judgment of any of them. [illegible] the taste of critics, who shall decide?

James Russell Lowell, who is always fond of a good jest, recently wrote a paper on the "[illegible] of American Humor," it is said, and read it to several of the Cambridge set. They all [illegible] it highly, and declared it one of his best [illegible] He then employed an acquaintance to copy the MS., and send it with an assumed name to the Atlantic. For several weeks he heard nothing from his essay; but being in Boston one day, he stepped into Ticknor & Field's establishment, and adroitly turning the conversation with J. T. F. upon American humor, expressed his surprise that more was not written on the subject. "There is enough written," said Fields; "but it's not worth printing. I had an essay on the '[illegible] of American Humor' the other day from some body, and it was the essence of [illegible] The fellow wanted it returned; but I threw it into the waste basket for fear he would inflict it on some body else." Lowell, according to [illegible], burst into a roar which [illegible] Fields until he [illegible] of the jest. He would not believe the story at first, but when convinced of it, he declared the essay was not good even if Lowell did write it. Cambridge is vastly entertained over the joke, and Boston says the whole thing is a fiction.

THE HERO OF NEW YORK.—The Clear Grits of the Copperhead party, ribald blasphemers and shameless blackguards as they are, manage to annoy their more stealthy fellows, every now and again, by an outburst of accidental truth quite curious to contemplate. "Brick" Pomroy, C. Chauncey Burr, and a few more of a like stripe are ugly thorns in the side of Democracy, for besides revealing, by their loud mouthed declarations, the [illegible] and purposes of their party, they take it upon themselves to utter some [illegible] of fact which are anything but complimentary to the valorous "unterrified." Under the head of "The Hero of New York," the New York Day Book, a virulent rebel organ, talks in the following strain:

General Ben. Butler, whatever else he may be, is certainly no fool, and [illegible] gets off a "good thing." Taunted by a New York Democrat with being the "Hero of New Orleans," he modestly disclaimed that title, but promptly declared that he was the "Hero of New York" in 1864. Now, all frank and fair-dealing men in this city will readily admit General Butler's claim. They will remember how brave, and uncompromising, and indignant were certain "leading Democrats" in advance of General Butler's advent in this city in the autumn of 1864. They would never permit him to enter the city, and were sure to hang him to a lamp-post in Broadway if he ever had the courage to come here. But alas! like the bravery of poor Bob Acres, all this preliminary courage oozed out of their finger ends when the "Beast" arrived, and they were as tame as whipped spaniels. Yes, "give the devil his due," Ben. Butler was the "Hero of New York," and is fairly entitled to that designation.

WILL AND SHALL.—Macaulay, in one of his critiques, says that "not one Londoner in a million ever misplaces his will and shall," and, he might have added, his would and should. But I am inclined to believe that in America [illegible] one man in a million ever fails to misplace [illegible] Mr. Moon has already referred to this peculiarity in American writers in one of his recent criticisms. The truth is, this vulgarism is getting to be an intolerable nuisance. We meet it everywhere. "We will have universal bankruptcy within three months," exclaims one of the most dashing and slashing of our Jefferson Bricks. "We will be inevitably lost, unless," etc., etc., cries a fashionable Whitefield. "I would very much like to see," etc., say half the persons you converse with, and nine tenths of the writers who figure so luminously in our daily prints—meaning, of course, "I should like." It is the same old joke over again about the Frenchman falling into the water: "I will be drowned, nobody shall help me."

Many people see the familiar words "Old Play" placed at the bottom of some quotation, which they can by no means locate in the circle of their reading and wonder from what obscure dramatist the author garnered his motto. "Old Play," which is so often quoted from, is an imaginary production invented by Sir Walter Scott on an occasion when he wanted a quotation to place at the head of a chapter. Not being able to find the one he wanted, he wrote some suitable verses, attributed them to "Old Play," and subsequently adhered to the device whenever at a loss for a bona fide quotation. "Old Song" is used in the same way.

We once heard of a man who was so absent minded that upon one occasion, when retiring to rest, he put his clothes to bed and hung himself on a chair.

Impeachment.

Johnson has thrown down the gauntlet to Congress. He tramples upon a law which was constitutionally enacted, and no course remains for that body but to adopt the extreme medicine of the Constitution. The extraordinary unanimity with which the House of Representatives have preferred articles of impeachment would seem to leave little doubt of the final result. The offense is clearly an impeachable one, being an open violation of law. Johnson holds that the law is unconstitutional; but when has a President before taken it upon himself to decide a matter of this kind? He had the veto power and exercised it, and with this, his constitutional means of opposing the law were exhausted. After his open defiance of the law, nothing was left for Congress but a resort to impeachment. That this proceeding will be sustained by the people, we have every confidence. Congress has taken its position, and it is not easy to see how it can recede. There is not the slightest reason for any unusual excitement, or for any fear that impeachment, if consummated, will lead to any great commotion. Impeachment is as clearly a constitutional proceeding as any other; and any talk of resisting it is the sheerest nonsense. The result may be awaited with perfect confidence that, whatever it may be, it will be fraught with no danger to the country.

Determined to "Revolute."

The country is safe, but "Beriah Brown, Editor," is in the throes of revolution. The public [illegible] is reasonably tranquil, for all men of sense know the country is not in danger, but Beriah rages in the highest excitation. He is ready and willing and eager to fight—provided nobody else is. His article of Saturday makes this fact fearfully and [illegible] apparent. Into the composition of that article he has thrown the concentrated essence of a brawling fool, a cowardly fustian, and a malignant, though impotent, seditionary; and the effect of the whole is exactly that of the efforts of a principal character in the Dunciad whose

Hoarse, heroic bass,
Would drown the clarion of the braying ass.

"The alternative between submission or resistance to tyranny," shrieks Beriah, "is about to become our only choice." How so? Because the constitutional power of impeachment is about to be resorted to by Congress. And Beriah, in the excess of his valor, all of which has been acquired since his flight from San Francisco, counsels resistance and tells A. Johnson that he will back him,—he, Beriah, who would be unworthy of the liberty he has inherited if he would not throw himself into the imminent and deadly breach, at such a time as this, when there is not the least possible chance of encountering danger! Beriah is furious against "military despotism," but he depends on the army to sustain Johnson. And especially on the Pacific Coast is the army [illegible] to save us from a "military despotism." "We are safe in saying," declares the authoritative Beriah, "that Gen. Rousseau of the Department of the Columbia, and Gen. Ord of the Department of California, will take their orders from President Johnson." It seems Beriah [illegible] that he "runs" the military division of the Pacific. But we imagine he would be more "safe in saying" that the rebel militia of Maryland, and the "Sons of Liberty" will "take their orders" from Johnson. And as Beriah is so zealous in the cause, perhaps he, as Governor General of the "57," will issue a proclamation to that Order to rise against the terrible "Radicals." He can speak more safely for the Order of the "57" than for the army whose assistance he invokes to save the country from a "military despotism." And we suggest to him that, in the meantime, he could gain a great advantage by having Jasper Johnson declare martial law in Yamhill, and by sending word to that Democratic military hero, "Col." John Lane, to arm the defenders of the "lost cause" in Southern Oregon. This, certainly, is the true course, since Beriah informs all whom it may concern, that "the point at which resistance becomes an imperative duty is immediately at hand."

To further carry out this purpose of having recourse to an armed force to save the country from a "military despotism," he advises Johnson to "at once remove Grant and put an honest man in his place, and then arrest the traitors and conspirators who are plotting for the overthrow of the Government." Beriah does not name the "honest man" whom he would put in Grant's place; but no doubt he has his mind on the "Democratic" chieftain, "Gen." Lee. Let Johnson put Lee in command, and then at once "arrest the traitors" who are about "to overthrow the Government,"—or in other words, who are about to impeach the Executive,—and who persist in exercising constitutional powers as the representatives of the people, instead of allowing all power to be diffused through the hands of Johnson. With "Gen." Lee in command and the Maryland militia at his back, it would be a small job to arrest both Houses of Congress, and this obstacle out of the way, the beneficent government of the autocratic Johnson would effectually preserve "our liberties." This seems to be Beriah's plan.

The threatening language and windy rhetoric of this article in the Herald are much too ridiculous to be worthy of any serious attention, but we remark here that as the party which controls the Government has put down one gigantic rebellion, it does not doubt its ability to take care of itself and the country. It will keep clearly within the requirements of the Constitution, and if there is any party which wishes to try rebellion again, let it be ready for the consequences. Before now men have been compelled to fly from the knives which their own hands have sharpened against their country and its laws, and such may yet be the fate of others. The loyal people of this country are not to be frightened into measures, or deterred by threats, and copperheads and rebels may refer for proof of this to the experience of the past.

The wheat crop of this State in 1861 was 4,531,236 sacks, having a value of $7,281,8[illegible]. That of 1867 was very near 15,000,000 of sacks, having a value of more than $30,000,000.

A Romantic Story.

A STOLEN CHILD RETURNED TO ITS MOTHER AFTER AN ABSENCE OF MANY YEARS.

From the Milwaukie Wisconsin, Jan 15.

Many years ago there came to this city, from Prussia, a man, his wife, and one child, a bright eyed boy of five summers. In Prussia the wife, when she went to the altar, sent the fire of jealousy rankling in the heart of another who had loved the husband, but failed to win his love. The discarded maiden was heard to utter threats of vengeance against the bride, but the latter in her happiness paid no heed to them. A child was given to her—a child worshipped by its mother—and which within a few months was stolen from her. Long and earnest search was made for the little one, but for two years without success. At the end of this time a child was returned to the mother of the same age as her lost one, and she was told it was the same. When taken the child was young, and in the interval had opportunity for changing in appearance, as that returned certainly had.

There was something in the young mother's heart which told her the returned child was not her lost infant, but all her friends, including the father, united in declaring it was, and that they could see the resemblance between parents and child beyond dispute. The mother felt that she must take the child to her heart as her own, still she never felt easy in regard to the identity. Some time after this event the parents and child removed to this country, and in the course of events took up their residence in the city of Milwaukee.

The boy, rapidly growing up, was bright and intelligent, and won all the father's love and mother's respect.

Last week the father was surprised and the mother startled by the appearance at their house of a boy who had just made his way from Prussia, and who claimed to be their real son. He was at best a pitiful looking object, having been brought up in ignorance and poverty. The boy was stunted, poorly clothed, and had evidently been treated more like a dog than a human being.

He brought with him a letter from a person long since forgotten by the parents, the woman referred to as having been discarded by the husband. The letter stated that the writer was about to die, and must reveal a great crime of which she had been guilty. Out of revenge on the young wife she had stolen the child, and had placed it in the hands of parties who would ill use it. She had also caused the other child to be returned, intending at some future day to make an explanation that would bring everlasting misery to the young mother's heart. Some time ago conscience, which had slumbered so long, came to life, and the woman who had lived only for revenge, became more miserable than she had ever hoped to make her rival. She determined, if possible, to repair the injury she had done, and she set about researches for the lost child. She succeeded after a long search, in finding the child, as also the residence of the parents, and at once the boy was sent to them with the letter, which pleaded in earnest terms for forgiveness for the great wrong done. The boy was impressed with the idea that he was to find parents who had waited for him long, and would give him a home with plenty. He seemed to look upon it as singular that his identity should be questioned, although of his early history he knows nothing and of his later years only that he has been among rough men, who beat him every day, gave him but little to eat but plenty of hard work.

The reception of the child and the perusal of the letter created a strange sensation in the family. The mother at once believed the child to be hers, but the father and near relations can see no family resemblance about it, and they know not what to make of the strange affair. The father has not now, nor has he had, any doubt that the first child spoken of is his own, and believes that this later movement is but a piece of revenge by his old enemy. At once he sent to friends in Prussia to investigate the matter thoroughly, to find the woman and to leave no stone unturned to find out if her story be true. Until this is done the boy will be taken care of as one of the family, and in any event his wants will be looked after. At the present time the mother is nearly out of her head over the newly-found child, which, we are told, she can hardly be made to believe it is not her own, whatever may be the result of the investigation.

SOUND TALK.—In an article entitled "A Talk with our next President," in Putnam's Magazine for February, occurs this paragraph:

In your administration, the great question of equal rights must be settled, or postponed to some indefinite period; now it can be settled peaceably, then it may reach its solution through a second upheaval of the Republic. If evils threaten in the event of your decision in one way, still greater dangers loom up on the other hand. Is it not better to do right now, when the opportunity invites, than to hesitate, where procrastination seems even more perilous than prompt execution? The question is thrust before you by fate—it does not come at your bidding or ours. Is it any safer, is it any wiser, for you to disregard the necessities of peace, in this connection, than it would have been for Lincoln to have disregarded those of war, in the matter of emancipation? There are two clearly defined careers which your administration may run, accordingly as you respond to this important question. There is no room for compromise. You must choose one or the other. Only one is right and expedient, therefore the other must be wrong and inexpedient. You must either go back to the point from which Johnson has set out, and attempt to revive his policy by rallying about it the forces of Congress and the people, or you must begin where Congress left off, and rally the people about a far different policy. The popular voice now seems doubtful; last year it murmured against Johnson, this year it appears to murmur against Congress. It is hardly possible that, by your superior tact, or by the greater weight of your influence, you may succeed in galvanizing into life a policy once strangled by the people, and thus the nation may be restored upon principles of class domination in the South. We do not believe that you will attempt that, or that you will succeed if you do. But if, on the other hand, you throw the weight of your abilities, character and influence in favor of equal rights of all men, and the readjustment upon that basis, of the harmonies so violently disturbed by a great war, you will touch the deeper chord in the popular heart, and will surely meet with a response. No President, nor Emperor ever had an opportunity so significant and so important as yours, and if you do right you will receive a support such as has never been accorded to any ruler in the history of the world. You may possibly postpone the ultimate triumph of justice, and take the consequences, in whatsoever shape God may choose to thwart defiant men. In any event, our faith is undisturbed in the ultimate triumph of right, whether it come soon and in this dawn of peace, or after whatsoever storms in the hereafter.

IS IT A VULCANO?—The Jacksonville Sentinel says:

Mr. A. French informs us that there is a place on Chrisman flat, near the low Butte across Bear Creek, sometimes called Skinner's Butte, where the ground bears evident traces of a convulsion. For about four hundred yards the ground is either cracked open or upheaved. From the way the dirt is thrown, Mr. F. conjectures that the throe extended from the south east to the north west. The beginning of this disturbance is in a small basin, in the winter filled with water, but dry in the summer. This pond is now dry. The crevice is now about seven inches broad, but when noticed last fall it was a foot wide. In one place a boulder weighing three tons has been moved from its bed, and in places where the course of this disturbance was under trees, the roots have been laid bare. Messrs. Ober and Skeiters last August noticed a smoke rising from this place, which enveloped the hill; a report as of an explosion was heard at the same time. This fissure is not in ground that would be likely to slide as the land is comparatively level. This is a singular freak of nature and our only wonder is that we have not heard of it before. We have talked with Mr Bedford Haly who lives in the neighborhood of the disturbance and he corroborates the statement of Mr. French.

JOHN BROWN'S JAIL FEES.—The Richmond (Va.) Register says:

On the 19th of October, 1861, a judgment was given in Judge Meredith's court in this city, for $165 in favor of John Avis, for the payment of jail fees, and for the expenses of the guard for keeping John Brown (whose body has been so long moldering in the ground) in Jefferson county jail. The judgment was against the Auditor of the State, who appealed to the District Court of Appeal. A decision has recently been given affirming the judgment of the lower court, and the Auditor will have to pay the great Ossawatomie's jail expenses.

The National "Democratic" Convention will be held at New York on the 4th of July. This day is the anniversary of other great events besides our Declaration of Independence. For example, the surrender of Vicksburg, and the rout of Lee's army after the great Union victory at Gettysburg. But it will be safe to guess that no cheers will be given in the "Democratic Convention" for these two events. They would irritate the Southern delegates, some of whom were "coerced" in a most unconstitutional manner on those occasions.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT NEWS!

THE HOUSE VOTES TO IMPEACH THE PRESIDENT.

Every Union Member Votes for Impeachment.

The Senate Notified of the action of the House.

Johnson sends a Quibbling Message to the Senate.

He is Alarmed at the Situation.

The Union Party and the Army Unanimously Sustain Congress.

Debate on Impeachment.

WASHINGTON, Feb 24.—In the House the consideration of the impeachment question was resumed. Ashley, of Ohio, opened the debate with a recitation of charges against the President, which he made when the proposition to impeach was up before the House.

Cook followed declaring that the President had not only violated the Tenure of Office law, but that he had exercised powers unwarranted by the Constitution and laws.

Boyer, Democrat, spoke against the resolution, [illegible] saying the House was debating [illegible] the charges already passed upon. He did not believe the people would sustain this new proceeding, which he characterized as revolutionary, and proclaimed that the law had not been violated because Stanton was not appointed by Johnson.

Kelley supported the resolution as to the appointment of Stanton. Johnson was only Vice President acting as President. Therefore, there was no force in Boyer's point. He argued that the case of impeachment was not a criminal case, and the Court must have jurisdiction of the person of the criminal and control of his movements. The criminal then had no power to perform his official functions. He argued this point at some length.

Cook advocated impeachment. He believed the public mind was ready for the event.

Beaman and Price followed on the same side. The House debate on impeachment commenced at 10 o'clock and the session lasted till 12. It being technically considered as a continuation of Saturday's session.

Washburne, of Illinois, followed Price in favor of impeachment. He made a severe and violent speech in denunciation of the President.

Woodward, Democrat, spoke against the resolution. He denied the right of the Senate to try this impeachment, as the House is not composed as the Constitution required, of members chosen by people of the several States, nor was the Senate composed of two Senators from each State. He declared that were he the President's counselor, he would advise him, if articles of impeachment are preferred, to demand the jurisdiction of both House and Senate, and to issue his proclamation that while he held himself impeachable for misdemeanors in office before a constitutional tribunal he never would subject the office he held in trust for the people, to violation by fragmentary bodies who propose to strip him of it. With the army and navy to sustain him, he would meet a popular response that would put an end to impeachment and the impeachers. Wilson, Woodbridge and Butler followed in favor of impeachment.

Fernando Wood and Pruyn, Democrats, spoke against impeachment.

Pollard, Stokes and Judd made strong speeches in favor of the report of the Committee. Eldridge, Corry and Haight sustained Johnson on legal grounds.

Vote on Impeachment.

WASHINGTON, Feb 24.—The impeachment resolution was adopted in the House by a vote of one hundred and twenty six against forty seven. The following is the vote:

Ayes—Allison, Ames, Anderson, Arnell, Ashley of Nevada, Ashley of Ohio, Bailey, Baker, Baldwin, Banks, Beaman, Bailey, Benton, Bingham, Blaine, Blair, Boutwell, Broomall, Bromwell, Buckland, Butler, Cake, Churchill, Clark of Kansas, Clark of Ohio, Corbin, Cobb, Cornell, Covode, Cullom, Dawes, Dodge, Driggs, Eckley, Eggleston, Eliott, Farnsworth, Ferris, Ferry, Fields, Gravelly, Griswold, Halsey, Harding, Higby, Hill, Hooper, Hopkins, Hubbard of Iowa, Hubbard of West Virginia, Hulburd, Hunter, Ingersoll, Jencks, Judd, Julian, Kelly, Kelsey, Ketchum, Kitchen, Laffel, Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Lawrence of Ohio, Lincoln, Loan, Logan, Loughridge, Lynch, Mallory, Marvin, McCarthy, McClurg, Mercur, Miller, Moore, Moorehead, Morrill, Mullins, Myers, Newcomb, Nunn, O'Neil, Orth, Paine, Perham, Peters, Pike, Pile, Plants, Pollard, Polsey, Price, Raum, Robinson, Sawyer, Schenck, Schofield, Selye, Shanks, Smith, Spalding, Starkweather, Stephens of New Hampshire, Stevens of Pennsylvania, Stokes, Taaffe, Taylor, Trowbridge, Twitchell, Upson, VanAernam, Van Horn of New York, Van Wyck, Ward, Washburn of Wisconsin, Washburn of Illinois, Washburn of Massachusetts, Wilkes, Williams of Pennsylvania, Wilson of Iowa, Wilson of Ohio, Wilson of Pennsylvania, Winslow, Woodbridge, and Mr. Speaker—126.

Noes—Adams, Archer, Axtell, Barnes, Barnum, Brent, Boyer, Brooks, Burr, Corry, Chandler, Eldridge, Fox, Getz, Glossbrenner, Galladay, Grover, Haight, Holman, Hodgkins, Jones, Kerr, Knott, Marshall, McCormick, McCullough, Morgan, Morrissey, Mungen, Niblack, Nicholson, Phillips, Pruyn, Randall, Ross, Sitgreaves, Steward, Stone, Taber, Trimble of Kentucky, Van Trump, Wood, Woodward—47.

The announcement of the result elicited no manifestation but the immense audience which filled the galleries and corridors all day gradually dispersed till it was reduced to less than one-fourth of the original number. Stevens of New Hampshire moved to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was agreed to and also to lay the motion for reconsideration on the table. The latter motion was agreed to, this being the parliamentary mode of making the decision final.

Stevens, of Penn., then moved the following:

Resolved, That a committee of two be appointed to go to the Senate and at the bar thereof in the name of the House and of all the people of the United States, to impeach Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors in his office, and to acquaint the Senate that the House will in due time exhibit particular articles of impeachment against him and make good the same, and that the committee demand that Senate make an order for the appearance of said Andrew Johnson to answer the said impeachment.

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed to prepare and report articles of impeachment against Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, with power to send for persons, papers and records, and to take testimony under oath.

The Democratic members attempted to resort to filibustering, but were cut off. After an ineffectual effort on motion to suspend the rules so as to bring the House immediately to a vote on the resolution, the rules were suspended and the resolution was adopted. Ayes, 124, noes 42. The Speaker then announced the two committees as follows: Committee to announce to the Senate the action of the House, Stevens, of Penn. and Bingham, of Ohio. Committee of seven to prepare articles of impeachment, Boutwell of Massachusetts, Stevens, of Pennsylvania, Bingham, of Ohio, Wilson, of Iowa, Logan, of Illinois, Julian, of Indiana, and Ward, of New York. The House then, at twenty minutes past six o'clock, adjourned.

Johnson Tries to Enter into a Conspiracy with the Military.

CHICAGO, Feb 25.—A Washington special says the Committee have positive evidence that Johnson endeavored to execute a conspiracy against Stanton and Congress, and one of the articles to be presented will arraign him on that charge. General Emory, District commander at Washington, will be examined on this charge. Andrew Johnson, on Saturday during an interview made such propositions as to show such a conspiracy and only wanted the assistance of the military to carry it out, and this fact may delay the Committee in reporting the articles for several days, although efforts will be made to get it before the House to-morrow, as it is the only day on which the rules can be suspended before next Monday, and now that the impeachment is a foregone conclusion, all parties say the quicker it is ended the quicker the country will return to a state of tranquility. Prominent parties believe that about three weeks will be occupied before a final vote can be reached in the Senate. The President is despondent to-night and irritated because Attorney General Stanbery made no application for a quo warranto. He says his positive orders were disobeyed.

General Emery to-day refused to detail a guard for the funeral of Major Kelly, saying that all the troops must be kept together in anticipation of possible trouble.

Johnson Sends a Message to the Senate.

CHICAGO, Feb 25.—The President sent to the Senate yesterday a long message giving his reasons for the removal of Stanton, which was read and ordered printed. The document is in the President's handwriting. A large portion of the message is devoted to an argument showing the power of the President to remove the Secretary of War. He quotes section 2 from the Act of August 7, 1789, creating the Department of War to show that Congress recognized the power of the President to remove the Secretary without the concurrence and consent of any other branch of the Government, and that it does not bind him because Stanton was not appointed by him, therefore he does not come within the scope of its provisions. He says Stanton only remains in office by Johnson's sufferance, and that the law was intended to protect such an incumbent by taking from the President the power to remove him. He says however he was aware that there were doubts as to the private construction of the law, and he therefore deemed it feasible that these doubts should be settled at the earliest moment, and the restraint or act fixed by the Supreme Court. By his suspending Stanton in August last he intended to place the case in such a position as would make a judicial decision necessary and proper. His understanding and wishes, however, under that order were frustrated and the late order for Stanton's removal was a further step toward the accomplishment of that purpose. He repeats that his own conviction as to the construction of the law and its unconstitutionality were well settled and sustained by every member of the Cabinet, including Stanton himself. In respect to the designation of the officer to act as Secretary of War ad interim he says he exercised that power under the authority of the provisions of the first section of the act of Feb 13, 1795. He argues the case at great length. The message concludes as follows: It may be, however, that in this as in other cases of implied repeal doubts may arise. It is one of the subtle and debatable questions which arise in the construction of the statute. If upon such question I have followed out an erroneous construction I submit whether it should be characterized as a violation of my official duty and of law. I have deemed it proper in vindication of the course I have considered it my duty to take, to place before the Senate the reasons upon which I have based my action. Although I have been advised by every member of my Cabinet that the entire Tenure of Office Act is unconstitutional, and therefore void, although I have expressly concurred in that opinion in the veto message which I submitted to Congress when I returned the bill for its consideration, I have refrained from making any [illegible] been impelled by a sense of obligations which constrain me to sustain inviolate the powers of the high trust committed to my hands. Whatever may be the consequences merely personal to myself I could not allow fear of them to prevail against a public duty so clear to my own mind and so imperative. If what was possible had been certain, if I had been fully advised when I removed Stanton, that in thus defending Government trusts committed to my hands, my own removal was sure to follow, I could not have hesitated. Actuated by public considerations of the highest character I earnestly protest against the resolution of the Senate which charges me in what I have done with violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States. ANDREW JOHNSON.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb 25.—In the Senate Sumner read a number of dispatches, sent to [illegible] by Minister Harvey to Gov. Magrath, informing him of the intended action of the administration relative to Fort Sumter, obtained from the Secretary of War.

Chandler presented a communication from the Governor of Michigan, which the Secretary proceeded to read. It expresses the hope that the Senate will not fail to execute the law against the Executive as well as against all who sympathize with treason.

Hendricks interrupted by inquiring by what authority the document was sent to the Senate.

Several spoke in regard to it, and finally the Chair put the question on the reception of the paper, and the Senate refused to receive it.

After some further business, and while Davis of Kentucky was speaking at a quarter past one o'clock Representatives Stevens and Bingham appeared at the door [illegible] of the House accompanied [illegible] to witness the proceedings.

The doorkeeper announced Committee from the House, who were recognized by the presiding officer. Stevens said: "By order of the House, we appear before you and in the name of the House of Representatives and of all the people of the United States, we do impeach Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors in office and we further inform the Senate that the House of Representatives will in due time exhibit articles against him and make good the same, and in their name we demand that the Senate make order for the appearance of Andrew Johnson to answer the said impeachment." The presiding officer, Wade, replied that the Senate will take action in the premises.

Howard desired to offer a resolution in connection with the matter.

Davis objected and claimed the right to continue his remarks.

Howard said the Senator was out of order as this was a privileged question and should have prior consideration.

Davis maintained that no question could be offered for consideration while he occupied the floor, unless he chose, out of courtesy, to give way.

Howard said the subject matter of this question was of great importance and demanded more immediate attention than the matter which the Senator from Kentucky was discussing.

Davis rather excitedly said that he was entitled to the floor and he would hold it and no gentleman had any claim to address the Senate while he was speaking on the bill under discussion.

Edmunds said he admitted the right of the Senator from Kentucky to hold the floor but questioned the propriety and delicacy of his asserting his right under the present circumstances.

Davis said if the Senate decided he was not entitled to the floor, of course he should give way, but if it decided otherwise, he should exercise the privilege of waiving his claim or not as he saw fit. The Chair put the question to the Senate, and it was decided that the Senator had a right to the floor. Davis said as the question was now settled he would now give way to Howard.

While the discussion was proceeding, Stevens occupied a chair at the end of the middle aisle of the chamber surrounded by a large number of Representatives, who had come over from the House to witness the scene. He spoke to no one, and fixed a steady eye on Davis who was claiming the floor. The audience in the galleries manifested considerable interest. When Davis gave way Howard offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the message from the House of Representatives, relating to the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, be referred to a select Committee of seven to consider and report on the same.

Bayard said the Senate had no constitutional jurisdiction to appoint a committee for this case. He contended that the Senate could only resolve itself into a high court of impeachment with the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court presiding and it had no right, he maintained, to anticipate the trial of a case of impeachment by reporting upon the action of the House. The resolution was adopted, whereupon the greater number of those present upon the floor took their departure.

Patterson next took the floor and made a long speech on reconstruction.

In the House, under a call of the States, a large number of bills were introduced.

At twenty five minutes before 2 o'clock, P. M., the doorkeeper announced the presence of Stevens and Bingham, who reported that they had impeached Andrew Johnson at the Bar of the Senate and that the President of the Senate had replied that the Senate would take action. Thereupon the regular business then proceeded.

Allison offered a resolution declaring as the sense of the House that the right to regulate duties on imports belongs to the legislative power of Congress and it is not within the power of the President and the Senate as the treaty making power to prescribe the duties upon importation of the productions of foreign countries except at such rates as the tariff laws may prescribe. The resolution was adopted without discussion.

Wilson offered a resolution declaring that the public welfare demands retrenchment, and directing the Committee on the Pacific Railroad to report no bill granting aid to any railroad. The House refused to suspend rules and the resolution went over.

The Speaker presented the Constitution of the State of Alabama as adopted by the Convention at Montgomery. Referred to the reconstruction committee.

The House proceeded to consider the naval appropriation bill, and the naval bill was finally passed. Washburne reported sundry civil expenses appropriation bills, which were referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Butler reported a bill making appropriations for the expenses of the Indian Department, which was made the special order for to-morrow.

Washburne from the committee on rules, reported a new rule, that pending a motion to suspend the rules, only one motion shall be entertained, namely: "That the House now adjourn," and that when the result thereof is announced the House shall not entertain another motion till the vote shall be taken on the suspension of the rules. This is intended to prevent filibustering by a minority of less than one third on the day when the motion for suspension of the rules is in order. The rule was adopted.

Washburne then offered a resolution, which was adopted, that when the committee report articles of impeachment, the House shall immediately resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole and speeches shall be limited to 15 minutes each, which debate shall continue till next legislative day to the exclusion of all other business, except the reading of the journal, and that at six P. M. on the said second day, the 15 minutes debate shall cease, and the committee proceed to consider the amendments offered under the five minute rule, but that merely pro forma amendments shall not be entertained; that at 4 o'clock P. M. on the second day, the committee shall rise and report its action to the House, which shall immediately without dilatory action, proceed to vote thereon; that if articles of impeachment shall be agreed upon the House shall immediately, without dilatory motions, elect by ballot managers to conduct the impeachment, but one dilatory motion to be entertained, namely, to adjourn.

A resolution was adopted that a committee be appointed to prepare articles of impeachment and the committee on reconstruction be authorized to sit during the sessions of the House. A recess was taken. The House met and indulged in a general debate for several hours.

In the Senate at 2 o'clock the Clerk of the House appeared in the Senate Chamber and read the resolution of impeachment passed yesterday. The reading was received in silence and no action was taken.

Great interest is manifested in the result of Thomas's examination before the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to-morrow.

Rather Rough Challenge.—"THE BILLIARD TABLE," a monthly New York paper of that name published in the interest of Kavanagh & Decker, Billiard Manufacturers of New York, has the following challenge in its November number which we consider worthy to call the attention of the Billiard Manufacturers of this State:

"CHALLENGE.—We will place $1000 in the hands of any responsible party, whenever any manufacturer or manufacturers of Billiard Tables in the world shall signify a willingness to test the merits of his or their cushion with ours, and to have the same, the decision of the cushions to be submitted to the examination of a committee of impartial and scientific men, who shall have power to investigate their merits thoroughly by actual trial with balls, dissection, etc.

"This we offer not for the purpose of winning money but solely to satisfy the public that the best cushions are superior to all others, and we should prefer that the money staked should go to some charitable object."

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE UNION CLUB

A special meeting of the Union Club of this city will be held on this Monday evening. Stirring events are transpiring at Washington and in view of this fact a special meeting is called to endorse the action of Congress in the course it has taken in dealing with a recreant President. Let all Union men attend.

T J DRYER
President Portland Union Club

A DEAD BODY FOUND.—On Saturday morning information was received by the Coroner Dr Poppleton that the dead body of a man had just been found in the canyon through which runs the Marquam road. It was found by a young boy named Bell while fishing for trout. Dr Poppleton immediately summoned a jury to be summoned and proceeded to the spot and with the jurors made an examination of the remains and the immediate locality. They found the body lying about fifty yards above the point where the road crosses the creek. There is a large log lying up and down the canyon, the head very close to the log, the legs and one arm in the water, one foot just under a large pole lying across the creek, the other arm lying stretched out on the bank. Just above the spot a large log lies across the creek and another lies across just below so that in the thick brush the body was quite effectually concealed, and was not found by the Coroner's party until after some search. The back of the head, the left arm and hand, and all the body below the waist belt had remained undisturbed, but the upper part of the face, throat, breast and stomach had been torn away evidently by dogs or wild animals. The right hand was also gone. The skin of the undisturbed parts was white, though the flesh was considerably decomposed. The front part of the skull had been wounded by six distinct cuts as if with blows from a sharp instrument. The man appeared to have been about middle age, well though plainly dressed. The coat was a bluish-black sack a little short. The vest was of brownish color. No hat or cap was found. The following articles were found in the pockets or lying with the corpse, and may be seen at the shop of Breisford & [illegible]: A black silk neck tie, a meerschaum pipe, a linen handkerchief, a butcher's knife, with scabbard and belt. Dr Black, who was called to testify as a medical expert, testified that in his opinion death resulted from the loss of blood through wounds inflicted upon the head with some sharp instrument. This we understand to be also the opinion of Dr. Poppleton, the Coroner. The jury after a consideration of the evidence returned the following verdict:

"We, the undersigned jurors having examined the body of the deceased, unknown to us, and after hearing the testimony of Dr Black who assisted in the examination, believe that the deceased came to his death from the hands of some person or persons to us unknown; neither do any of us know the name of the said deceased.

Signed, H W Davis, Foreman, A C Breisford, Thos Hartness, Dewitt Crist, John J Garwood and W M

The circumstances of the case seem to clearly indicate that the man was murdered and then thrown into this place for concealment. Who he was or who were the perpetrators of the villainy is at present enveloped in profound mystery and may forever remain so.

The amount of treasure shipped during the month was $[illegible],500, the larger part of which was in the hands of merchants going below to purchase goods for this market. It will be seen that there is a large excess of receipts of produce over the exports which is owing to the want of sea going tonnage. Unless we soon have an increase of shipping facilities the produce accumulating will become embarrassing to dealers. A good line of freighters between here and San Francisco is at present the greatest want of the State.

A young Parisian who gives good dinners and writes wretched verses recently consulted M Nestor Roqueplan upon his poems, saying, Illustrious critic, do give me frankly your opinion. Was I wrong to write these poems? M Roqueplan read them and then gravely answered: That depends upon circumstances: did you really write them to save your life?

DR. C. W. COOL,
DENTIST.

THOSE WHO DESIRE FIRST CLASS DENTAL SERVICES might do well to give him a call. He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE. The nature of his improvement consists in lining the entire concave surface with tin, giving it strength and rendering the plate twice as strong and one third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. This new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where this work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has received, December 31 1867, a patent from the United States Patent Office. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years, and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his office. This work has given satisfaction in every case.

The Pain Killer Abroad.

The following correspondence will show something of the estimation in which Perry Davis' Pain Killer is held on the shores of the Mediterranean. It is not surprising that a medicine that receives such testimonials as this from abroad should find well sustained and increasing appreciation at home.

U. S. CONSULATE, Tunis, Dec 27 1865.

To the Proprietors of Davis' Pain Killer, Providence R. I.—Gentlemen: The enclosed has just been received from my friend Tulin, late Consul General of Norway and Sweden and of Prussia in this place. No comment is needed. Truly yours, AMOS PERRY

GENOA, December 16 1865

Dear Sir:—Accept thanks for this third supply of Davis' "Pain Killer." This medicine has often relieved me of serious indisposition, and I would not on any account consent to be without it, both for myself and my family.

I have recommended it to my late colleagues and friends in Tunis and Genoa, and at my request one of the largest druggists in this city has sent an order to New York to meet the demand in this place.

Yours truly, G. A. TULIN

Ex-Consul Gen'l of Sweden, Norway & Prussia in Tunis.

Hon. Amos Perry, Consul General, Tunis. fe26daw1m

SOOTHING AND BRACING.—There is no preparation in existence which has such a soothing effect in cases of nervous excitement as

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Although the fame of this renowned invigorant rests mainly on its astonishing cures of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and intestinal disorders, it is equally efficacious in nervous complaints. Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which as a sex they are subject. It cheers and lightens the depressed mental powers as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any unpleasant reaction. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water. Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels.
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous
Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic,
Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness,
Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or
PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

Happy Women

Impatient women as you wait
In cheerful homes to-night to hear
The sound of steps that soon or late
Shall come as music to your ear

Forget yourselves a little while
And think in pity of the pair
Of women who will never smile
To hear a coming step again

With babes that in their cradle sleep
Or cling to you in perfect trust
Think of the mothers left to weep
Their babies lying in the dust

And when the step you wait for comes
And all your world is full of light
Oh women safe in happy homes
Pray for all lonesome ones to-night

(Wich is in the state uv Kentucky)
January 12 1868

Last nite the body uv a nigger wuz found dead at the end of Boregard avenue—the main street uv the Cross Roads The poor cuss wuz rolled up agin the fence, a lyin on his face ez dead ez Joolius Cesser I diskivered him At fust I thot the feller wuz drunk ez I didn t see his face it bein a common occurrence to find our citizens in that sitooashen, but on turnin him over and ascertainin the color of his complexion I knowed that wuz not what ailed him He hed died uv starvashen, and cold and sich

I knowed that nigger He wuz wunst the property uv Elder Gavitt now deceest, and wuz alto gether too sooperior a nigger to quietly take wot wuz his normal condishen and settle down to his fate. He resembled the Elder very much His mother was a mulatto woman and ez her son developed it was observed that he had the Gavitt pecooliarities uv feacher in a strikin degree Mrs Gavitt raised a ruckshen about it but the Elder [illegible] her that it was all right He cited her to the physiological fact that the resemblance [illegible] of the mother's seein the Deakin so often before the birth uv the child It's my opinion that that was the case At all events he had very much uv the enterprise uv the Gavitts Wunst afore the war he run away to Injeanny and was recaptered only after a desprit chase and that chase by the entire Democratic Mar [illegible] State. He was finally run down and sent back in triumph

The minit the war broke out, this cussid one fourth nigger run away agin He made the camp near the Cross Roads, but glory the Fedral [illegible] had ez yit a little shame left onto em and the Kernel to whose regiment he made his way, sent him back to the Elder under guard with his compliments, accompanied by a note statin that the Fedral armies wuz a fitin for the Yoonyun ez it wuz, and that it wuz proposed not to interfere with property in any way The Elder wuz [illegible] by this generosity that that nite and the next day he only bushwhackt three uv the Fedral pickits, insted of layin out all nite for [illegible] ez wuz his accustomed to do

[illegible] finally the Emancipashen Proclamashen [illegible], and the nigger run agin The Elder heerd uv him frekently He jined a nigger regiment, [illegible] the war, wuz wounded in sevral [illegible] and narrowly escaped the just retribushen inflicted onto em at Fort Piller At the close uv the war he went to Ohio with his wife and two [illegible] he did not [illegible] there. It wuzn't [illegible] for him There wuz a sudden coolin towards the nigger, and he felt it Ez they didn't need him enny more to fill quotas, and save em [illegible] and sich, the colored brother wuz the [illegible] nigger he allus wuz Somewhat [illegible], partickerly ez when he enlisted he wuz [illegible] lucky, determined to [illegible] out here. The Cross Roads [illegible] He [illegible] a little [illegible] uv the servis and bought some land up toards [illegible] and built onto it a cabin Somehow the world didn't go smooth with him One nite [illegible] wuz torn down and his growin crops wuz [illegible] Immejitly thereafter he wuz ar[illegible] for [illegible] his wife [illegible] support, his [illegible] all gone, and he took his mule and a part uv his [illegible] to get out uv that [illegible] misforchoons came another He [illegible] one day when Isaaker Gavitt [illegible] a playful mood, shot him with a revolver, wich [illegible] severely The [illegible] A nigger hed refused his [illegible] a white man! Immejitly the [illegible] indignated, and the dig[illegible] under the town pump two [illegible] A severe cold resultin, he wuz confined to his bed a month with fever, during wich time he got into other trouble. His out-house wuz [illegible] his hogs wuz killed, and [illegible] He wuz skarsly [illegible] his wife [illegible] at the [illegible], where [illegible] Isaaker, [illegible] had given [illegible] and I must own [illegible] The young [illegible] The woman wuz [illegible] dyin the next morning in a barn

From this time he never recovered He had [illegible] and he owed quite a number uv [illegible] he could not pay At [illegible] got out agin his property, and it wuz [illegible] and ez he wuz not able to [illegible] the trustees uv the township, ez bail agin his becomin a township [illegible] Mcfeeters [illegible] and ez it wuz [illegible] he wanted it. The nigger wuz turned out, and he wandered about a few days [illegible] not in his right mind, and finally wuz [illegible] Dead he wuz and [illegible] the black sole into wich we found him, a hole [illegible] and he wuz hid from mortal site. Sich is the fruits uv emancipation!

Josh Billings on Bed Bugs

I never see ennybody yet but what [illegible] a bed bugg. They are the meanest uv aul crawling, creeping, hopping or biteing things

They dassent tackle a man by dalite but [illegible] dark, and chaw him while he iz fast asleep.

A muskeeto will fight you in broad dalite at [illegible] a chance tew knock in his sides the flea is a game bug, and will [illegible] at you even in Broadway—but the bed bugg iz a garroter, who waits till you strip, and then picks out a mellow place to eat [illegible]

If I was in the habit ov swearing I wouldn t hesitate tew damn a bed bugg right tew his [illegible]

Bed buggs are uncomon smart in a small way; one pair of them will stock a hair matrass in 2 weeks with buggs tew last a small family [illegible] year.

It don't do anny good to pray when buggs [illegible]; the only way to git red ov them is tew bile up the whole bed in aquafortis, and then heave it away and buy a new one.

Bed buggs when they have grone aul they intend to are about the size of a bluejay s eye, and have a [illegible] complexion, and when they [illegible] are as thin as a grease [illegible] but when they git thru garroting they are swelled up like a blister

It [illegible] them 3 days tew git the swelling out ov them

If bed buggs hav enny destiny to fill it [illegible], but it seems tew me that they [illegible] hav been made by ackcident [illegible] are, tew stick into sumbody

If they was got up for sum wise purpose they must hav took the wrong road, for there [illegible] wisdum in chawing a man aul night long, and raising a family besides, tew follow the same trade

If there is sum wisdum in aul this, I hope the buggs will chaw them folks who kan see it, and leave me be, because I am one ov the [illegible]

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea Gleet Stricture Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness Impotency etc Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system Look at their pallid emaciated and haggard faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies see that they are carefully treated and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from European and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice of depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances a disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue fetid breath cough consumption night sweats monomania and frequently insanity If relief be not obtained by applying immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

CURED AT HOME

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case symptoms length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who will by gross sworn to certificates dupe the unwary Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and their places are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades Some are tinsmiths shoemakers newspaper carriers intelligence office keepers, etc Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it but you will find their former occupations in it Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863 The only way to avoid them in positive is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus false certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure
